

Medical Ultrasound Loses One Of Its Pioneers.

Martin Buchalter, 76, a pioneer in the field of Medical Ultrasound, past away, November 17th at his home in New York City. Mr. Buchalter was the President and CEO of Parker Laboratories, Inc., the world's leading manufacturer of ultrasound and electromedical contact media. He guided Parker to international prominence through a career dedicated to inventiveness and marketing savvy. Through his foresight, Aquasonic® 100 Ultrasound Transmission Gel was developed and helped shape the medical ultrasound industry. A proud graduate of the University of Sciences in Philadelphia, PA, he also held an MSc from Long Island University.
